1. Background

Following United Nation General Assembly decision of 29 November 2012 to upgrade Palestine status to non-member observer state, in April 2014, the State of Palestine acceded to many international treaties including seven core human rights conventions: ICCPR, ICESCR, CAT, CEDAW, CERD, CRPD, CRC; without any reservations.

Palestine committed to implementing the provisions and principles of these treaties under international law and work on domesticate these principles within its legislation. Furthermore, the Palestinian courts are obliged to apply the international law stipulations in their decisions.

One of the examples of the conflict between municipal law and international law is "death penalty". The death penalty in Palestine is enshrined in its statutes, which are based on Jordanian law (in the West Bank) and British mandate law in the Gaza Strip. The Jordanian Penal Code applying in the West Bank poses death penalty over 17 offenses, while the Gaza law punishes 15 offences by death. In addition, death penalty may be imposed pursuant to the 1979PLO Revolutionary Penal Code. This code imposes death penalty over 42 offenses; it is applied the Palestinian military courts.

The first and the most important step before Palestine is amend the foregoing provisions relating to death penalty in light of the ICCPR. Palestine may also consider acceding to the Second Optional Protocol to the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights, aiming at the abolition of the death penalty. Concern has been expressed by various NGOs regarding the executions that have taken place in the Gaza Strip without the ratification of the Palestinian President. These sentences have raised concerns as they contradict national and international standards on fair trial.

2. Objectives

- Activities under the project aim to motivate the debate among various stakeholders (academic, justice sector, religious peoples, police, etc). D
- Discuss the challenges facing the abolition death penalty.
- Assist Palestinian decision-makers and encourage them to abolish death penalty by, for example, acceding to the Second Optional Protocol to the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights, aiming at the abolition of the death penalty.

3. Work Plan

As indicated by AICS, the activities will be held in the academic year of 2016/2017. Three meetings will be held in three months: February, March and April 2017.

The activities will be dedicated to the development of three components divided in the following modules:

1. The first module will include two seminars by Palestinian/international experts as follows:
 - The first seminar will take place on Tuesday, 14 February 2017, on "Palestine Accession to the Second Optional Protocol to the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights: Challenges and Possibilities";
 - Second seminar on Tuesday, 7 March 2017, on "Death Penalty and Fair Trial Guarantees in Palestine".
